Methodologies

The Sub-Fund integrates sustainability perspectives – both risks an opportunity – into investment decisions based on three methods as follows:

- Opt in: In the composition of portfolios, exclusion is applied to limit investments in companies and issuers with a significant exposure to certain activities considered harmful to the environment or society at large in line with Kavaljer's Climate Principles and the fundamental exclusion criteria discussed above.
- Action: On behalf of the shareholders, Kavaljer may, if deemed appropriate, enter into dialogues with companies in which the Sub-Fund has invested or intends to invest. The aim is to encourage enhanced sustainability work practices, among other things, through promoting long-term decisions. Kavaljer will also exercise its voting rights at annual general meetings when deemed necessary.
- Opt out: If an investee is found breaching one of the criteria, Kavaljer will assess the severity of the incident. Kavaljer may then engage in a dialogue with the company to advocate for appropriate remedial actions. However, if the problem seems unlikely to be resolved, the investee will be excluded from further investment and gradually divested.

In addition, the binding elements of the investment strategy that are used for investment decision making shall be in line with the promotion of environmental and social characteristics. The Investment Manager shall not exceed the predefined thresholds of accepted exposure to excluded activities or invest in companies that breaches international norms or conventions. All potential investment subjects are analyzed before the investment decision is made and regularly during the investment period.
